

The Friends of the Tewksbury Township Library Present
an In-House Event:

Breakfast University Second Semester

The first semester of NY Historical's Breakfast University was outstanding! We are delighted to be continuing with a second spring/summer semester.

The Friends will be live streaming this second semester from New York Historical beginning on Monday, May 4th at 9 AM, upstairs in our library. Some of the greatest history professors in the nation will present an original, provocative one-hour talk.

A light breakfast will be offered.

A non-refundable registration fee of $40 covers all four of the lectures.

Use the Paypal link to pay online; or print the following registration form and bring to the library.

THE LECTURES

Monday, May 4, 9 am ET

Wealth in America, From Vanderbilt to Bezos
Jeremi Suri, The University of Texas at Austin

Professor Suri examines early industrial titans and how they would go on to shape generations of wealth builders, leaving an enduring imprint on American democracy and the role of extreme wealth within it.

Monday, June 1, 2026, 9 am ET

What Would The Founding Fathers Think of America Today?

Wendy Schiller, Brown University

Professor Schiller examines how actions taken by the President, Congress, and the Supreme Court have reshaped federal power and individual rights, and how these developments align with the Constitution's original principles.

Monday, July 13, 2026, 9 am ET

Musical Masterpieces That Changed America

Anna Celenza, Johns Hopkins University

Explore how technology has transformed music from a foregrounded experience into a constant backdrop and how certain works will break through to shape American culture and politics.

Monday, August 3, 2026, 9 am ET

Baseball's 10 Greatest Players and What They Mean to America

Vincent Cannato, University of Massachusetts, Boston

Experience America's enduring love affair with baseball through a discussion of the game's greatest players of all time.